M de Lamartine has been appealing again to the public, asking them to subscribe to the first four volumes of his Memoirs, which are finished and ready for press In the event of his not living to complete his entire work, these will form, he states, a separate series

THE STORY OF THE FOURTH OF MARCH, 1865—WHERE JOHNSON GOT HIS BRANDY —The Washington correspondent of the Boston Commonwealth relates the following

The scene on March 4th, 1865, when Andrew Johnson disgraced himself and almost disgraced the high office he was elected to fill I have heard related, without restraint, by a gentleman to whom Vice President Hamlin told it It runs thus

Mr Hamlin was in the room known as the Vice President's, about eleven o'clock, when the Vice President elect arrived There was nothing unusual in his appearance, except that he did not seem in robust health The usual courtesies being exchanged, conversation proceeded on ordinary topics for a few minutes, when Mr Johnson asked Mr Hamlin if he had any liquor in the room, stating that he was sick and nervous. He was told there was none but it could be sent for Brandy being indicated a bottle was brought out by one of the pages It was opened, a tumbler provided, and Mr Johnson poured it about two-thirds full Mr Hamlin said, in telling it, that if Mr Johnson ordinarily took such drinks as that he must be able to stand a great deal After a few minutes the bottle was placed in one of the book cases out of sight

When, near twelve o'clock, the sergeant at arms Mr Brown, came to the door and suggested that the gentlemen get ready to enter the chamber, Mr Hamlin rose, moved to the door near which the sergeant-at-arms stood, and suggested to Mr Johnson to come also The latter got up and walked nearly to the door, when, turning to Mr Hamlin, he said, "Excuse me a moment," and walked back hastily to where the bottle was deposited Mr Hamlin saw him take it out pour as large a quantity as before into the glass, and drink it down like water They then went into the Senate Chamber

What followed will not soon be forgotten The foregoing I believe to be a correct version of how Andy got brandy

POISONING WHALES —The London Post is rather alarmed at the idea of poisoning whales It says A single ounce of the compound suffices to kill a whale in the course of a few minutes—a fact whence one may judge of the potency of this new poison Compared with the prolonged torture of harpooning the new method may be considered as really humane, even as regards the whale, but as regards the fishermen, whose lives were exposed under the old system to such proverbially imminent perils the two methods will not bear a comparison If there were no other contingencies to be taken into account, the reported invention would be one of the most useful kind But if an ounce of the poison will kill a whale in a few minutes, it would be adequate to the destruction of a whole shoal of small fish which themselves would be devoured by others, and so on indefinitely Even supposing that there were no fish on the spot to consume the offal of the hundreds of whales caught and thrown into the sea, there may be undercurrents of which we know nothing to carry it off any distance It may be said that the fish eating the poisoned offal would die themselves, so that no poisoned fish are likely to find their way to Billingsgate Such a destruction of fish would be deplorable in itself, but as the quantity of the poison would be continually diminishing according to the number of fish through which it passed, the dose at last might become so small as not to kill for hours, or even days, and the fish might be caught while yet alive and brought to market The method appears to diminish the risk of human life incidental to whaling and to be humane as regards the whale itself which it kills so rapidly but even these advantages would be purchased at too dear a rate if all the other fish in the sea are liable to be poisoned as well as the whale

Many Canadian Episcopal clergymen are of strong ritualistic tendencies One of them has officiated at a marriage in a white silk gown another has openly declared the doctrine of confession, a third has published the "Priest's Prayer Book," in which the doctrine of confession plenary absolution, and prayers for the dead are maintained The Bishop of Toronto declares he sees nothing objectionable in all this

The laws in Georgia denying foreigners the privilege of real estate, have been repealed by the Legislature There is a law in Mississippi prohibiting foreigners from conveying real estate until after they have been naturalized, and also providing that unless so naturalized their lands and tenements shall not descend to their heirs upon decease but shall be sold and the money paid into the State Treasury

The New Orleans Crescent says that several of the Vicksburg merchants made up a purse of $100 for the men of the Twenty fourth United States Infantry as a testimonial of gratitude for the great service rendered by that command at the late disastrous fire The gallant Twenty fourth immediately turned the amount over to the Mayor for the relief of the sufferers

Ploughing Orchards

It is the common opinion expressed by writers that orchards especially when the trees have attained to a large size should not be ploughed on account of breaking the roots of the trees Such high authority ought perhaps to settle a question of this kind and perhaps, we small fry should shut our eyes and swallow the decision as we do doctor's medicines with a large exercise of faith and without knowing what we swallow But many old notions once considered well founded have been exploded by time, and more thorough investigation and experiment— And it is possible that erroneous ideas on the subject of ploughing orchards have hitherto been [illegible] We are told we must not break the roots of the trees Why not? Because nature prompts the trees to push out roots until as some say the whole distance from tree to tree is filled with a net work of roots and these must not be interfered with because it checks the growth of the tree and finally kills it prematurely To judge Just as much reason to say you must not cut a limb from the top of a tree because nature tends has branches to shoot out in every imaginable shape and direction You employ the knife and the saw in the top You cut and saw thin out and shape the tree and continue to do so every year and must do so so long as it is a tree You shape nature or the natural inclination of the tree to any form according to your own taste or as your own judgment dictates to be the best means to accomplish the end which you desire which undoubtedly is the production of the largest amount of the finest fruit Is it then so sure that it is any worse to cut off a small root than a large branch? Or a large root than a large branch? Is it any more necessary that a tree should have a net work of roots near the top of the ground and in the way of the plough than it should have a large net work of branches near the ground and in the way of the team You shape the tree in accordance with your judgment and for the uses which you desire and why not for the roots? Again, the best cultivated orchards have the best trees and fruit and it is simply impossible for a farmer to think of cultivating an orchard by means of mulching and spading alone I have seen many trees both large and small size, covered with yellowish, sickly leaves, caused by standing in the sod and too little cutting of the top, but I do not remember ever to have seen one presenting the same appearance as the effect of standing in the midst of the most thoroughly cultivated ground or too much cutting of the roots In fact when you begin aright with a tree in its youth it is just as easy to shape the roots out of the way as the top and I think it no worse to cut off large roots to get an approximation to a correct shape, than to cut off large branches for the same purpose I think trees should be set deeper than they usually are, and every year and oftener all the root coming out at or near the surface of the ground should be cut off close to the body of the tree with a sharp spade, and you may plough up to the tree as you would to a post I know at least one man who has followed this plan for years with good success

A DAM ON THE ST LAWRENCE RIVER —The Lachine rapids on the St Lawrence river are about a mile in length, and in this distance the river falls twenty five feet In the center of the rapids, and extending through their entire length, is a chain of small islands The navigable channel is between these islands and the Southern bank, and its hydraulic power is estimated at four million horse power It is proposed to turn the stream gliding between the islands of the rapids into a great continuous mill stream for the manufactories to be built on the islands Secondly, it is intended to construct a great dam from the Islands to the northern or Montreal bank of the river, two thousand eight hundred feet in length wide enough for a double railway track, a carriage road and foot paths and high enough to retain all the head water of the north channel, which by running a pier a short distance up from the uppermost island can be made from sixteen to eighteen feet. Below the dam, along the rocky bed of the arrested north channel waters, mills are to be erected Above the dam will be an immense and placid mill pond, into which great rafts of timber from the Ottawa and elsewhere may be easily floated to be sawn by the mills below

Thirdly, it is proposed to excavate a canal three or six hundred feet wide and fourteen feet deep, commencing a short distance above the dam, and running nearly parallel to the river about one thousand feet from its bank, down to the river St Pierre. Mills are to be built along the canal throwing their tail water into the river Mills would be built also along the valley of the St Pierre It is calculated that the hydraulic power thus controlled will be sufficient to drive all the mills for whose location space can be found within proper distances It is intended likewise that the water of the canal should supply increased pumping power for the city water works, and, when needed fill docks for ocean going steamers

It is anticipated that the construction of the projected dam will greatly relieve Montreal from the yearly danger and inconvenience arising from the accumulation of packed ice, as much of the ice packing takes place on the rapids along the northern channel

HOPEFUL LOYALTY —At Pine Bluff, Arkansas, is a paper called the Southern Vindicator, and this is the style in which the editor, John George Ryan he signs himself, vindicates what he says

"I am not inclined to be an assassin, but if to destroy a tyrant is assassination, then I would destroy the tyrant And it has been proved that President Lincoln was the elected head and voluntary servant of the radicals, who purposed the destruction of the South, and, in a measure, succeeded in their hellish designs I was opposed to and fought against Lincoln and his tyrants, and ever will

"When the news of his death reached me, I rejoiced

When I learned that a man who never identified himself with the Confederate cause, struck the tyrant low I thanked God that he had selected an instrument from the heart of radicalism right under the tyrant's guns, to deprive America of a radical tool

'And when I laid down my arms, after a bloody struggle for independence, I thanked God from the bottom of my heart, that Abraham Lincoln did not live to mock our misery "

THE INCOME TAX —Of the many modifications required in our laws relating to revenue there is probably none which is more imperatively called for than a revision of the income tax As it now stands the tax is the same on the same amount of income, whether it be derived from real estate, from the funds a man possesses, or from the personal labors of the individual and while the family of one man who derives his income from his personal efforts would be left oftentimes penniless by the death of its head the family of the other would be in receipt of the same amount from the funds and the tax would go to the support of the government which gave protection to that property Then is it not reasonable that he who derives his income from his personal labors should pay less than he who derives it from his property? It is true that it may be said that the tax is the price which he pays for protection of the government but that protection is twofold in one case while it is only personal in the other The tax should therefore be greater where the protection is twofold —N Y Herald

The Crystal Palace Fire in London

LOSS ESTIMATED AT $1 000 000 —THE ALHAMBRA AND ASSYRIAN COURT DESTROYED

The fire at the Crystal Palace in London on the 30th of December was briefly announced in a dispatch by the cable The London journals give full particulars of the disaster The loss was very serious The Tropical Department was destroyed including the Indian, Egyptian, Alhambra, Assyrian and Art Courts, with nearly all their contents The damage is estimated at a million dollars

The Daily News and Times describe the scene

THE FIRE

"At 1 30 P M a policeman walked round the courts at the tropical end of the palace and everything then seemed to be quite safe and there was not the slightest smell of fire noticeable At 2 o clock or a few minutes before that hour a fire was found to be raging in the neighborhood of the lecture room The flames spread with astonishing rapidity to the reading room and to the adjacent courts and dense masses of smoke soon filled the whole of the tropical department which is separated from the rest of the building by an immense canvas screen The inhabitants of the neighborhood soon saw that something was amiss in the palace Several gentlemen left their houses and hastened to the building but for at least half an hour those inside would not admit any one—perhaps they did not hear the shouts and calls at the entrance doors

At length however a little before three o clock some dozen gentlemen got in When they entered they found the fire making terrible progress flame and smoke filled nearly the whole of the tropical wing, and began to enter the rest of the building by means of the galleries The roof of the end where the fire raged had become red hot and threatened to fall in every moment We are informed by some of those who had gained admittance at the hour stated that they found only three persons in the palace—a gardener a policeman and the attendant on the birds and monkeys The palace fire engine was just being got ready to work the hose was being shaken out None of the chief officers were on the spot, it being Sunday they were at their own homes The gentlemen at once took it upon themselves to act with a view to save the building from destruction They went outside and invited some eighteen or twenty navvies who were loitering about to come in and work The men readily agreed and in a few minutes the whole body of volunteers had provided themselves with crowbars and other implements from the tool house, and they at once set to work to tear up the flooring of the palace outside the screen, so as to prevent the flames from rushing along the screen, which was scorched, catching fire, and setting the Handel orchestra and the theatre in a blaze

The gigantic Christmas tree was cut down and removed A number of the stalls were demolished, and everything of a description likely to burn was removed as far as possible from the screen The pannels of deal which formed the back of the gallery facing the road were smashed away as fast as the men could ply their crowbars, but the flames set them on fire so fast that the men had a long time to keep retreating, and demolishing as they went At half past three o'clock the end of the building gave way the roof fell in as far as the north transept, and the flames shot up to a mass The effect of this was very serious, and if the wind had not been blowing away from the central transept nothing could have saved the whole palace from immediate destruction As it was so great was the body of flame that the lofty water tower was ignited, and continued to burn until after eight o'clock at night,

THE ANIMALS

"The appearance of the burning end of the palace at this moment was indescribably beautiful The flames played along the red hot girders in fantastic wreaths, and suddenly the mass dissolved as if by magic, and gradually sinking fell with a terrific crash The main girders of the transept remained standing, and in the midst of their circling arches could be seen the colossal statues of the Egyptian Court with the flames leaping and playing around them On the floor of this wing the aviary and the collection of monkeys, etc , was kept Efforts were made to rescue as many of these creatures as possible, one gentleman took out fifteen canaries, and let them loose in the nave a man seized an eagle and carried it away under his arm, others made a dash at the owlery and saved some of its occupants but the unhappy chimpanzee fell a victim to the fire He was seen frantic and tearing at the bars of his cage in his wild terror but no one could venture near the spot, and he was burned to death The poor creature's shrieks and cries were painful to hear

THE LOSSES

"The havoc caused in the Alhambra and Assyrian Courts is most complete, and scarcely less so in the Byzantine, immediately opposite All three are dismantled, and present a deplorable sight Of the Alhambra Court erected and embellished under the superintendence of Mr Owen Jones, and with which thousands must be familiar little remains but the gilded walls, and these are blackened in places by the action of the fire and otherwise defaced As will be remembered it was a reproduction on a small scale of the far famed Court of Lions, the Tribunal of Justice, the Hall of the Abencerrages, and the Divan of the fortress palace of the Alhambra situated on a hill above the city of Granada, in the south of Spain, the capital of the Moorish kingdom of that name Passing through the central archway a fountain was seen supported by the lions that gave name to the court, and through the archway opposite the stalactite roof of the Hall of the Abencerrages composed in the original of innumerable pieces The Court of Lyons, in Mr Owen Jones reproduction was seventy-five feet long or two thirds the length of the original The columns were of the same height and size as those of which they were restorations, and the arches that sprang from them were also of the actual size of the originals

"The Assyrian court was one hundred and twenty feet long fifty feet wide, and had an elevation of forty feet Its chief interest lay in its illustrating a style of art of which no specimen had, it is said, been presented in Europe and it was erected from designs by Mr James Fergusson assisted by Mr Layard The Byzantine court, on the opposite side of the nave was a restored copy of a cloister of the Church of Santa Maria at Cologne of the date of the close of the tenth century The roof was beautifully decorated with Byzantine ornaments, and at one end was a recumbent figure of Richard Cœur de Lion, from Rouen which has been comparatively little injured by the fire In the centre stood a marble fountain an exact copy of one at Heisterbach on the Rhine That too has been but slightly damaged, as have also the recumbent effigies of Henry II and his Queen Eleonora, Richard I and Isabella wife of King John copied from those of Fontevrault Abbey the burying place of the Plantagenets and which are said to be the only copies in existence The greater part of the court itself however, with all its characteristic architecture and elaborate decoration has been irreparably injured

"With the library and reading room perished a copy of the New Testament printed in 1851 for the King of Prussia and said to be unequalled as a specimen of Gothic typography Twenty five copies only of the book was printed when the type was broken up Of these, five existed in England—four now The magnificent volume was the gift of the late King to the library of the palace "

COMMERCE OF CHARLESTON.—From the Charleston (S C) Daily News, of January 5th, we take the following

On a careful examination of the figures of the last three months as shown in our tabular statements of this morning, we find that in the foreign and coastwise exports of cotton the increase of the fourth quarter of 1866 over the same period of the year 1860 is nearly 20 000 bales while a comparison of the total value of exports for the same time shows an excess in favor of the fourth quarter of 1866 of over $2 [illegible] 000 This is certainly a source of congratulation as it indicates that under the most adverse circumstances the trade of our port exhibits signs of an improved condition what we may not anticipate when capital sufficient shall be centered here to give an additional impetus to all branches of commerce and manufactures

The Free Masons of Washington are about to erect a Masonic Hall west of the Patent Office to cost $120 000 It will be a magnificent edifice

Good Words for the Yankees

FROM ONE OF THEIR DEVOTED ENEMIES DURING THE WAR

[From the London Telegraph of December 15th]

A highly imaginative trans-Atlantic geographer has lately informed the world that America is or shortly will be a country bounded on the north by the Arctic circle on the south by eternity, on the east by the rising sun and on the west by the day of judgment ' There are a set of bitter and bilious gentlemen, chiefly of the Tory persuasion, to whom this kind of imagery is gall and wormwood They are miserable because America is big and because she uses these laughably big expressions The reason why they hate her is because her government is so free, and the success of it so wonderful ; but since it does not do to confess these facts they are always girding at her faults of manner and style—a practice which is about as useful as to rail at the Alleghany mountains for being huge and craggy For our part, we experience no more surprise or vexation at the hyperbolics of our descendants beyond the Atlantic than we should at seeing a likely lad split his trowsers in growing or a fine, healthy baby reach his plump arms out for the moon The thing is natural and even satisfactory with the young giant that we have bred , and England, the mother of empires ought to be heartily pleased and amused at the glorious gasconades of her mighty child Is she to be an elderly coquette, and vex herself because her sons outstride her, and her daughters shoot up with a beauty and vigor that remind her how she ages? She ought, if she were honest and hearty to be glad and proud of youngsters—the like of whom history never knew—to knit them to herself in bonds of firm love, and aim at making out of them an Anglo-Saxon family of empires which should girdle the world with the language of Shakspeare, and the happy influence of that little matron island ! We like to read these ridiculous sublimities, wherein our imperial cockerels crow themselves well nigh off their legs with lustiness round the old Britannic hen What a bird the American chicken will be when all the feathers come, if it can scratch and crow and flourish its spurs like this in an epoch when it is going through the barbarism of a new civilization, and has the best part of its hackles to shoot. And if bigness justifies big words, we should like to know who is to blame these inventive and flowery patriots? Has any other nation forty millions of square acres of fat corn ground for a back yard, which will grow six quarters to the acre, as long as you like to plough the old crop in? Has any other nation a mountain of solid iron to make the ploughs of, like Pilot Knob, in Missouri, or seas of oil under the ground, and shores of solid copper along the lakes? Does any other nation double its population every twenty years and suck the emigration out of Europe without counting it? or carry cargoes two thousand miles along one river? or venture on the impudence of a Monroe doctrine? or fight a war with a million of soldiers and have them all home again, like boys after school, within a year? Or, what other people collects a revenue of £118,000,000, and with £20,000,000 in gold at a time in its exchequer, laughs at a debt of £500,000,000, and engages to wipe it out in ten years? Mr Artemus Ward says he never knew a Yankee who didn't talk about the Rocky Mountains, except one, and he was deaf and dumb , but even he wrote a book about them Who is stupid enough to laugh at this? It is the nature of our people , the young giants must have gigantic topics, words, politics, schemes, and sayings, and if we laugh, let it be with hearty good nature and as old folks do at the brag and buncomb of the young ones, whose strength and health are so beautiful and full of the promise of noble days and works

NEW CURIOUS USE OF THE DIAMOND —In July, 1864 an apparatus for boring rocks with diamonds was patented in France by Lescot. It was not practical, but later improvements by Pibet, towards the end of 1866, made it so. As now constructed, it consists of an iron tube, one end of which is attached to a rod serving as a handle, and at the other end is the edge, armed with a series of black diamonds of Siberia, which are set in such a way that by turning the tube by means of a machine, they excavate an annular groove in the rock and leave in the centre a solid cylinder which enters into the tube, and is easily broken off and extracted when the boring is finished Fifteen such machines have already been manufactured , its advantages appear to be that it progresses uniformly, however great the hardness of the rock may be, the progress is about three quarters of an inch per minute, and no doubt may, by further improvements, be considerably increased. The diamonds never wear out, it is known that this is also the case with the glazier's diamonds and that the black diamond is a variety much harder than any other. It appears also that the expense of boring with a simple machine of this kind is about the same as boring in the old way , however, more labor is turned out , but the great advantage is, that in the same space, where, for instance, in the Mount Cenis Tunnel, three borers are attached, eight of these machines may work, requiring not more power to drive them The expense of excavating tunnels with a single machine of this kind, in hard rock, was found in France to be forty to fifty francs per cubic metre, which corresponds to six or eight dollars per cubic yard

THE CROCODILE SYLLOGISM —Amongst other famous ancient dialectic problems is the following dilemma, which is framed with wonderful ingenuity—the acuteness displayed in its construction being probably unsurpassed It is called Syllogismus Crocodilus, and may be thus stated An infant while playing on the bank of a river, was seized by a crocodile The mother, hearing its cries rushed to its assistance, and by her tearful entreaties, obtained a promise from the crocodile, who was obviously of the highest intelligence that he would give it her back if she would tell him truly what would happen to it On this, the mother perhaps rashly, asserted "You will not give it back "

The crocodile answers to this "If you have spoken truly, I cannot give back the child without destroying the truth of your assertion If you have spoken falsely, I cannot give back the child, because you have not fulfilled the agreement ; therefore, I cannot give it back whether you have spoken truly or falsely "

The mother retorted "If I have spoken truly you must give back the child by virtue of your agreement , if I have spoken falsely that can only be when you have given back the child , so that whether I have spoken truly or falsely, the child must be given back "

History is silent as to the issue of this remarkable dispute

Agricultural Products for 1863

The best statistical tables which can be prepared, exhibiting the productions of the country for any given period must necessarily be incomplete and defective. Nevertheless the tables published from time to time by authority of the Government possess great value, and will serve to give an idea of the extent of our resources and the sum total of our products.

Some valuable facts are presented in the report made by the Commissioner of Agriculture for the closing months of 1866. A review of the year estimates the wheat crop of the United States at 180,000,000 bushels. The crop of 1859 was 171,000,000 bushels, and if the rate of increase from 1850 to 1860 had continued, the yield of last year would have been 242,000,000. In 1861 the crop in twenty two States was reported at 160,000,000 bushels, in 1865, at 148,000,000 and in 1866 it was still further reduced to 143,000,000.

It is remarked that in England and France the wheat crop has declined for the last three years in about the same proportions as in this country. This accounts for the high price of breadstuffs on both sides of the Atlantic.

In twenty two States, it is estimated that the corn crop of 1866 is 100,000,000 bushels less than the crop of the previous year. The data of the Department indicates that the crop of eleven of the Southern States will fall short of that of 1860 by about 90,000,000 bushels.

No estimates have been furnished the Department from the Pacific States. Nor have we yet seen any data from any source which would enable us to present even an approximate estimate of the wheat and corn crops of these States for 1866.

The total estimate of the tobacco crop for 1866 is 350,000,000 pounds. This is a much greater yield than has been reached since 1860.

The cotton crop is estimated at 1,750,000 bales of 400 pounds each. These figures are the result of careful county estimates, after close scrutiny and cautious examinations. The cotton crop of 1860 amounted to over 5,000,000 bales, a figure which is not likely to be reached again for several years.

A VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN PROJECTED.—There are indications that a new policy in regard to the Indians is to be commenced very soon. There is to be a vigorous movement against all the hostile bands on the great plains as early as possible. Advices state that the Government is making energetic preparations for a decisive campaign in Dakota and Nebraska. The transportation of troops and the accumulation of army material at Fort Leavenworth, Omaha and other convenient depots, indicate that with the opening of spring a large force of cavalry, light artillery and mounted infantry will take the field. It is understood that General Cook, now in command of the Platte District will be relieved, and his place supplied by another commander. It is hoped that the operations of another year will about finish the business with all the predatory tribes. In Eastern Oregon Gen Crook is doing remarkably good service. To substitute his mode of dealing with Indians for the farce of treaties, is the proper method to insure security from Indian depredations.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.—Late dispatches stated that in response to a resolution the Secretary of War had laid before the Senate facts and estimates concerning the Northern Pacific Railroad. The figures were transmitted to us by telegraph, but as they came in a chaotic state, we reproduce them. The estimates of the cost of the road were prepared by Brigadier General Simpson, and are as follows. For the construction of 204 miles of the road, $149,488,665, for rolling stock and fixtures at $11,200 per mile, $223 994 86, for steamers on the Missouri and Columbia rivers, $3,000,000, for engineering and contingencies, $10,000,000, for tunnelling beyond the estimated average per mile, $110,783 98. These and other items named make a total of $206,600,340, or an average per mile of $101,040.

To show the utility of the road in a military point of view, it may be stated that the Quartermaster-General estimates that transportation will be required for posts along the route for fifteen thousand men and 15,330,000 pounds of military stores, basing the calculation upon the supply of fifteen military posts, each manned with one hundred and forty foot and seventy mounted men, ten of them from the eastern terminus and five from the western.

A FEARFUL RECORD.—The evidence taken by the New Orleans Riot Committee makes a printed volume of 500 pages. It goes to prove that whatever plan of reconstruction may eventually be deemed just and politic, the immediate pressing need of the South is security for life, liberty and property. Here are a few facts, the index to a tragic volume, from the New York Times, a journal conducted by a member of the Doolittle Convention at Philadelphia.

"It is stated that the evidence taken by the New Orleans Riot Committee is very strong touching the insults and wrongs to which original Unionists are subjected to in Louisiana, without chance of redress. They are represented as declaring that the State is an unsafe residence for Union men. The recent letter of Gen Heintzelman shows that Texas is similarly bad. Rebel mobs control the authorities in many districts, and keep in constant peril known friends of the National Government. The report of General Ord, from Arkansas, is not one iota better. Outrages and murders upon freedmen and women are reported continually, and neither the local authorities nor the people evince a disposition to enforce the laws. General Ord speaks of fifty two murders of freedmen by white persons within three or four months, without an attempt to arrest and punish the murderers. The constant recurrence of these reports is a sad commentary upon the alleged fitness of the South for unconditional restoration."

COLORADO.—An idea of the growth of Colorado Territory may be gathered from the fact that in the Land Office at Denver the claims and entries of land from the first ten months of 1865 were one hundred and forty one thousand acres. For the same period in 1866, the entries and claims were two hundred and fifty-one thousand acres. These lands could only be taken by pre-emptions and homestead claims, and consequently are claims made for actual and permanent settlement.

THE NEW ORLEANS RIOT.—In referring to the action of the Committee appointed by Congress to investigate the cases of the New Orleans riot, a Washington letter says:

"One hundred and seventy witnesses were examined, including fifty citizens whose names were furnished by a committee appointed by the city to conduct the defense, among the rest were all the leading men of the State whom the committee could reach.

The testimony is regarded as establishing by overwhelming proof that the slaughter of July was fully prearranged. The testimony of Gen Sheridan was very full and of great significance and importance. The evidence covers much wider ground than that taken by the Military commission. The difficulty which was anticipated in securing the testimony of Union men did not arise, but they literally swarmed to members of the committee to tell their stories and ask for relief. Many came secretly and many were not examined. All concurred in the statement that the course of Mr Johnson had made the condition of Union men unbearable. In the city their lives were safe but their business ruined by rebellion and they were all virtually outcasts. In the State life was not safe. The general term for Union men in that section is ~~the~~ ~~tor~~. The agony manifested by this whole class was one of the matters which attracted the most attention from the committee, and the bearing of the evidence on this subject will show the terrible suffering which Mr Johnson has brought upon the Union men of the South in a glaring light."

The New York Herald and Times favor Territorial reconstruction.

Lively Scene in the Senate

A dispatch to the St Louis Republican, dated Washington, January 17th, relates the following lively scene in the U S Senate.

The debate in the Senate to day was lively and interesting and closed with a scene more animated in its character than any witnessed in that chamber since the opening of the present session. Several speeches had been made on the bill to regulate the tenure of office, the pending question had been lost sight of, and instead of the tenure of office, the President's conduct in appointing and removing men in different parts of the country and the character of different appointees, was the subject of discussion.

Mr Hendricks had undertaken the championship of the President, and made an effective speech for his side of the house, which Mr Sumner rose to close the debate. He had not proceeded very far when he was called to order by Mr McDougall who protested against the following sentence as not allowable in a debate in the Senate:

"There was no such duty on our fathers, there was no such duty on our recent predecessors in this chamber, because there was no President who had become the enemy of his country."

Mr McDougall was called upon to reduce the objectionable words to writing, and after a pause of several moments wrote something on a piece of paper and sent it by a page to Mr Sumner, who at first declined to look at it, saying petulantly that as Mr McDougall had raised a point it was for him to establish it. Mr. McDougall was standing at some distance from Mr Sumner, and appealed to him across the Chamber to state whether what he had written down was correct. It was in these words: "We never had a President before who was an enemy of his country." Mr Sumner read the slip and handing it to the page said, "No, sir, that is not correct, you must quote my words as reported by the short hand writer."

There was another lull in the proceedings caused by waiting on the Globe reporter to get Mr Sumner's exact words. Mr Seward entered the Chamber and took a seat by Mr Sumner, from whom he learned the status of the case and what had transpired up to that time. The reporter's notes were forthcoming presently, but, in the meantime Mr McDougall's point had been decided by Mr Anthony who was in the chair, not to be well taken. The decision had been appealed from and the appeal had been withdrawn. Mr Doolittle then proposed that Mr Sumner should resume the floor and report from the manuscript of the reporter the words to which exception had been taken. This was agreed to by Mr Sumner, and he read what I have already quoted. As he uttered the last word of the sentence, Mr. Doolittle jumped up and raised a question of order, which the Chairman, Mr Anthony, immediately decided as in the previous case, not well taken. A scene of confusion followed, which would not be easy to describe. Half a dozen Senators were on the floor at once.

Mr. Edmunds thought that Mr Sumner's language exceeded the proper limits of debate, but he wanted the question of order postponed till to-morrow. This could not be done, as an appeal had been taken by Mr Doolittle from the decision of the Chairman, and it must be disposed of before proceeding further.

Mr Lane, of Indiana, obtained the recognition of the Chair, and moved to lay Mr Doolittle's appeal on the table. Another Senator raised the point that that motion was not in order, and one point of order after another was raised until there were four appeals from the decision of the Chair, heaped one on top of the other, and all pending at the same time. It is difficult to tell how this intricate preliminary web would have been unravelled had not all the motions and appeals been withdrawn but the one raised by Mr Doolittle which was finally decided by the yeas and nays in favor of Mr Sumner and the Chair and the Senate then adjourned without action on the bill so long under discussion.

INAUGURAL ADDRESS OF GOVERNOR GEARY.—A Harrisburg Dispatch of Jan 15th, says the following is an abstract of Governor Geary's inaugural address delivered in the State Legislature.

He refers to the close of the rebellion and pays a tribute to the part borne by Pennsylvania in contributing 366,326 volunteers to our armies, and to the generosity of the people toward the survivors, and towards the widows and orphans of those who fell. He regrets that the General Government has taken no steps to inflict proper penalties upon the rebel leaders, and terms it a censurable forbearance. If we are shocked at the exhibition of cruelty and ingratitude among those who having inaugurated and prosecuted a causeless war against a generous Government, and having been permitted to escape the punishment they deserve, are once more arrogantly clamoring to assume the control of the destinies of this nation, how much greater cause would we have had for surprise had slavery been permitted to increase and multiply? Boast as we may of our material and our moral victories, yet is it not true that there is no such thing as republican Government in ten States that began and carried on the war? There is not to day a despotic Government in Europe where the individual rights of man are so defiantly trampled under foot as in sections of our own country which were supposed to have been brought into full submission to the Government of the United States. The violaters of most solemn obligations—perpetrators of the most atrocious crimes in the annals of time, murderers of our heroic soldiers on the field of battle and in loathsome dungeons and barbarous prisons—they must not, shall not reappear in the Council Chambers of the nation to aid in its legislation or control its destinies unless it shall be on conditions which will preserve our institutions from their baleful purposes and influences, and secure republican forms of Government in their purity and vigor in every section of the country. To the Congress of the United States the heart-felt sympathies and the overwhelming suffrages of the people had been generously given. They have fearlessly proclaimed the universal verdict, "Well done, good and faithful servants!" Upon the deliberations and actions of Congress, our present interests and future welfare all depend.

A new fund is to be raised in the South for the support of Jefferson Davis' family, and the following letter from Mrs Davis is published to loosen reluctant purse strings:

"By using the strictest economy we see our way clear for the next three months. Beyond that all is dark. Having to maintain two households—my mother and children in Canada and my husband and younger children here (Fortress Monroe)—my expenses are necessarily and unavoidably great, in spite of the rigid economy I exercise. You are aware that we have not one dollar save that contributed by friends. You also know that not a dish goes upon Mr Davis' table beyond the strictest prison fare that is not paid out of our own purse. The papers assure the world that my husband is well taken care of, but they do not say it is his own people who keep him from want."

In the Penitentiary of Illinois there are one thousand and eight male and forty four female convicts, showing an increase of four hundred last year. Nearly every convict of both sexes chews tobacco which is given them every Sunday morning in pieces about four inches square and which costs the lessees annually $5,000. Every cell in the building is now occupied and the want of room is so pressing that five hundred new cells had to be constructed, and are now nearly completed.

The publishers of a New York magazine write to the Athenæum to protest against the piracy of one of their serials of Messrs Cassell Petter & Galpin, who are reprinting it in their Illustrated Family Paper but so mutilated as to make it read as an original English production.

SUCCESSFUL BURGLARY.—STOWELL, CHAMBERLAIN & CO'S SAFE BLOWN OPEN AND ROBBED.—Our town was startled on Friday morning by the discovery of a great burglary in the Banking Office of Messrs Stowell, Chamberlain & Co. The safe was a double one made by Lewis Lillie & Son of the largest size, weighing many thousand pounds. The burglars obtained an entrance into the office by prying open one of the windows with a jimmy. In the lower left hand corner of the right hand outer door of the safe, which was two inches thick, a hole was drilled through which powder was introduced. It was blown open separating the outside from the bolts and inside casing, rendering it a complete wreck. The lower hinges of both doors were broken off. They next attacked the inside safe which was two feet high, extending the width and depth of the inside of the main safe. This safe was one and a half inches thick, made with folding doors. They drilled another hole through the right hand door in nearly the same point they had on the outside safe, blowing open both doors. This gave them access to the money and bonds, amounting to twenty five thousand dollars, which they carried off. The larger portion of this belonged to special depositors. They also took valuable papers belonging to the firm, leaving in their flight a bag of gold and silver, also a hundred dollar bill. This safe was made to order for Mr Lillie, of chilled iron, and was supposed to be burglar proof, as it was a double safe, one inside the other, with Lillie's combination locks on the outside and inside doors. No trace of the burglars has been discovered. They came well prepared with jimmies, drills, gunpowder, &c. The clerk of the bank did not leave there until twelve o'clock at night. The explosion was heard about four in the morning, showing they were expeditious in their work. feb1dlm

A [illegible] MESSA[illegible] J [illegible] Pratt [illegible] Ann W[illegible] a divorce from her husband, Michael W W[illegible] [illegible] the reader start [illegible] as be [illegible] telegraph said and [illegible] all the way from San Francisco to Portland after dark on Wednesday night. We are inexpressibly glad [illegible] learn that Ann has finally [illegible] all obligations to Michael W—but [illegible] provoking, is [illegible] the dispatch? Not a word [illegible] of the particular [illegible] which was the immediate cause of [illegible], the [illegible] and [illegible]. Not a word about Michael's [illegible] habitually or failed to provide [illegible] for his loving Ann or [illegible] too much with pretty waiter girls or what not. Not a word about the important facts as to the eligibility of either party as a prospective match—whether Ann [illegible] be suitable for a wife over with one children or not [illegible] or whether Michael is worth having again on any terms. And then there is Annie's maiden name—not a word about that nor whether she has a big brother. We should like to know whether Michael is plunged in grief because of the absent [illegible] of his bed and board by the faithless Ann, and whether the poor fellow is taking fearfully to his cups in [illegible] of his marital shipwreck. Perhaps, after all, it was not Michael's fault and perhaps—we admit the possibility—Ann had another feller in her eye and again perhaps Michael don't care the snap of his little finger how many divorces Judge Pratt may grant his wife. Alas we know not: all these matters are in the deep bosom of telegraphic reticence buried. 'Tis this that gnaws us. We are inexpressibly "worrited" about the unpublished history of the Willis family. There is a history—we are sure there must be a history, and yet all we know, all we can tell our readers is that Ann has got a divorce from Michael W. Now what does that W stand for?

CIRCUIT COURT—SHATTUCK JUDGE.—Proceedings of Tuesday, Feb 19th

State of Oregon vs Charles Hall Indictment presented at November term 1866 accusing defendant of the crime of setting up a gambling device, on motion of Prosecuting Attorney, on account of absence of witnesses, case dismissed and sureties discharged.

State of Oregon vs Freeman Fitmore, Larry Stahl, John Williams and James Thompson Indictments presented charging defendants with the crime of gambling; recog[nizance] of each defendant $.0 declared forfeited.

State of Oregon vs Julian Ladrew and Andrew Simmons, each pleaded not guilty.

State of Oregon vs William Connor defendant convicted of larceny and sentenced to imprisonment and hard labor in the Penitentiary of the State for one year to commence Sept 27, 1868, at which time his term of imprisonment in the county jail under sentence from Recorder's Court, will terminate.

H A Clark vs Wm Musgrove et al Jury empanneled and most of the day occupied in hearing the testimony; action to recover damages for trespass on lands.

State of Oregon vs. S. Stephens and James Fountain grand jury returned not true bills; defendants discharged and sureties exonerated.

TELEGRAPH RATES.—The tariff of prices for telegraphic messages from Portland to the great Eastern cities, has been reduced to correspond with the reduction from California, and is now as follows:

To New York—$8 35 for 10 words, and 62 cents for each additional word.

To Boston—$8 65, and 70 cents for each additional word.

To Washington—$8 65, and 69 cents for each additional word.

To Philadelphia—$8 65, and 68 cents for each additional word.

This does not include the revenue tax of 5 per cent which must be added to the charge for the message. The reduction as above is about 25 per cent on the first ten words.

THE YOUNG MEN'S LAW ASSOCIATION.—Rt. Rev Bishop Scott delivered a lecture before this Association last evening at the Court House. The Association passed the following resolution unanimously:

Resolved, That the Portland Law Association hereby tenders its thanks to Rt. Rev Bishop Scott for his able and instructive lecture delivered before it this evening.

We are informed that the Association will publish the lecture in a few days. The increasing interest manifested in this course of lectures is most gratifying. The Association is likely to prove a really useful institution. The regular meetings are held on Friday evening of each week. The exercises consist of essays and the discussion of exclusively law questions.

ANNIHILATION OF THE TELEGRAPH.—Last evening we received a dispatch dated Point de Galle, Ceylon, Feb 15th, announcing the arrival at Hong Kong, China, of the steamship Colorado, on the 31st of January. Think of that reader—Ceylon, in 80 degrees east longitude only [illegible], distant from Portland in 122° 30' west, reckoning each way from Greenwich, England! Think that [illegible] degrees more than half way round the world, [illegible] degrees. Then, calculate the circuitous route the message must pursue, by way of the Indian, [illegible] and Trans Atlantic telegraph to New [illegible], thence to New York, thence to San Francisco and lastly to Portland! The distance can be very little if any less than 18,000 miles or at the rate of 6,000 miles per day. Verily, space is annihilated.

BARMAN BROTHERS.—Those gentlemen are now engaged in removing their large stock of clothing and furnishing goods into the City of Paris Store, where they will soon be fitted up and ready to display their goods for examination and sale. They have by liberal advertising and fair dealing, established themselves in a leading business in their line, and the indications are that they will continue "a-going on." Mr Isaac Barman will go to San Francisco by the Ajax for the purpose of adding largely to his stock, and upon his return, they will have, probably one of the largest stocks on the coast. Call and see them at 89 Front street, any time after the close of this day.

DRYING WINDS.—A late San Francisco paper says: "The dry, electrical north wind continues day after day, and the face of the country is rapidly drying up. The surface of the ground is already baked like an adobe, and dust is almost as plentiful, and as fine cut and penetrating as in midsummer." It is certainly a phenomenon and a wonder where that north wind originates. It don't come from Oregon. Our winds are rather wet, the face of our [illegible] is not drying up—nothing like it, and if there is such a thing in physical nature as dust, we'd like to see it—that's all.

DEPARTURE OF THE "LINCOLN."—The Revenue Cutter, Lincoln, left here yesterday morning for Puget Sound, with Capt. Howard on board, who goes on a tour of inspection of the light houses on our northern coast and in Puget Sound. Gen. Steele also went by her to visit San Juan, for the purpose of adjusting some difficulties calling for his intervention. Mrs George E Cole went as the guest of Capt. Howard, to join her husband at Olympia.

DENIED.—We are informed that the statement made by a person in attendance at the time of Keating's examination, for the murder of Riecke, to the effect that Keating had been once before tried for murder, is altogether unfounded. We know nothing of the matter, but as we mentioned the statement before, we give this one for whatever it may be worth.

RECORDER'S COURT.—In the Recorder's Court, yesterday William Smith, charged with an assault and battery upon a man named Holland, had a hearing and was discharged, it [illegible] that the assault and battery was justifiable. Richard Monahan (formerly published, John Thomas) charged with an assault with intent to kill Samuel Wilson, was held to answer before the grand jury.

DAILY TRIPS.—Capt. Turnbull informs us that the Fannie Troup will hereafter make daily trips between Vancouver and Portland, leaving here, till Monday next, at 2 30 P. M., and on and after Monday, at 3 o'clock P. M. The Fannie is a favorite boat, and her officers are among the most obliging on the river. We are glad to see her business increasing so as to warrant daily trips.

CASE DISMISSED.—A complaint against George Eldridge, charging him with adultery was yesterday heard before Justice Gradon. After the examination of one witness, at the suggestion of the Prosecuting Attorney, Hill, the defendant was discharged. Nothing whatever in the nature of criminal conduct was proved.

AMUSEMENTS.—The performance of the Tanner Troupe at the Willamette Theater last night was very fair. Miss Edelia is winning her way rapidly to the favor of the public. The Bronze Horse, a laughable farce, will be presented to-night.

FROM THE COLUMBIA SLOUGH.—The O. S. N. Co's steamer Julia arrived last evening from Columbia Slough and Government Island (twelve miles above Vancouver,) bringing for J. O'Connor 300 boxes apples 175 sks kidney potatoes and 60 sks onions.

WILLAMETTE FREIGHTS.—Arrived per Alert, Tuesday, Feb. 19th—257 boxes apples, 3,475 qr sks flour, 5 bales woolen goods, 4 boxes merchandise 1 roll leather, 13 dressed hogs and 3 sacks seeds.

TROOPS TO BE PAID OFF.—Major Glenn, Paymaster, U S A., went as passenger on the Revenue Cutter Lincoln, to visit the various posts in the Puget Sound District, to pay off the troops.

PERSONAL.—Gov Woods arrived in this city last evening, en route to San Francisco. He will leave to-day by the steamship Ajax, and will be absent, perhaps, two or three weeks.

FROM MONTICELLO.—The Rescue arrived yesterday from Monticello with the mails, a number of passengers and a cargo of hay.

CLOTHING.—Barman Bros. will remove their fine stock of clothing and gents furnishing goods into the City of Paris Store this day. Clothing sales hours from 6 o'clock A. M. to 9 o'clock P. M. after to-day.

A Charleston, S. C. letter says: "Many of the sons of families formerly wealthy, and still proud, fill the places of conductors on the cars, and seem rejoiced to obtain a paying occupation. The city police force, too, is filled up with young men of respectable connections who, before the war, would have deemed themselves too good for many a less vocation.

The town of Seabrook has been excited over a case of flogging in one of the schools in that town. A graduate of Exeter Academy, employed as a teacher, flogged a girl upon the hand for upward of an hour, in order to make her acknowledge a wrong act.

Russia is again announced as making extensive war preparations—a proceeding that Austria and Turkey are very much distressed at, as it bodes them no good.

THE COLLIERY DISASTER IN ENGLAND.—A letter dated at Barnsley, England, December 30th says:

A the colliery to-day, the No 3 shaft continued to emit a quantity of smoke and gas, the smell of the choke damp at the top being very strongly marked. There is no water, no reason to believe that the fire has extended to any considerable degree in the workings. The carpenters and blacksmiths are busily engaged working [illegible] to get the necessary machinery ready for the [illegible] [illegible] to the No [illegible] shaft to the depth of 150 yards. This addition, which is to be composed of blocks of oak put in sectionally, will have on one side a wrought iron pipe 22 inches in diameter, and about 150 yards in length. The ladder will act as a safety valve by making provision for the escape of any gas which may rise, and which otherwise might force the scaffolding up. On the top of it will be placed a few yards of puddled clay and the whole will be held by four new wire ropes now being made, and each of which will be capable of bearing a strain of fifty tons.

The official list which has just been given out as correct as possible, from the books places the number of persons killed at 351, consisting of four deputies, 32 day men, 57 day boys, 115 coal getters 120 hurriers, and 22 volunteers, but it is just possible that there may be one or two volunteers whose names have not been ascertained. Of the entire number, 75 were brought out, of which five only are now alive, three men and two boys. There are, therefore, no less than 276 bodies now in the pit, and when the fire will be so far extinguished as to allow of their being recovered, no one can tell. But it is expected that when all the shafts have been sealed up, no considerable time will elapse before an attempt will be made to test the practicability of descending.

A BET THAT BOOTH STILL LIVES.—James L Campbell states in the New York Times, that while in Calcutta, India, in July last, he heard a singular bet made that J Wilkes Booth, the assassin of President Lincoln, is still living; an idea that, by the way, prevails to some extent in this country, the theory being that the man shot for Booth was another man. Campbell tells his story in this way:

Two gentlemen were discussing the merits of some of the leading conspirators in the assassination of our late lamented President. One of them apparently a man of more than ordinary intelligence and of decidedly strong Southern proclivities, was very eloquently defending J Wilkes Booth, John H Surratt, Payne, Atzerott, Mudd and others. His adversary, a gentleman from Boston, Mass., and evidently a strong Union man, made use of some bitter sarcasm when speaking of them, and said, among other things, that in his opinion "any man calling himself an American, who sympathized with Booth, deserved the same fate." "The same fate!" repeated the Southerner. "I will lay a wager of five hundred pounds sterling that John Wilkes Booth, who assassinated President Lincoln, is alive and in good health at the present time, and agree to furnish proof of it within six months." "I accept the wager," was the rejoinder of the other party, and both being men of means, the money was soon forthcoming, and deposited in the hands of the proprietor of the hotel to await the final decision. Curiosity prompted me to inquire the name of the party whose strange offer had been so readily accepted, and I was informed he was no other than the late notorious rebel pirate Lieut. William Martin Tolbert of Shenandoah notoriety (formerly of Troy, Ohio, but more recently of this city), and who is at present master of the ship Ocean Bird.

London besides immense quantities of meat raised in England, annually consumes over 200,000 cattle and nearly 1,000,000 sheep and lambs that are imported from the continent. The greater portion of these cattle are killed where they are raised, and taken to the metropolis in the form of dressed meat.

A St Paul paper says whole townships in Minnesota have been doomed as the houses of whip-poorwills and owls, and "no admittance" written over them with "agricultural college scrip," to the hardy pioneer in search of homes.

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER is really a valuable medicament, and unlike most of the patented articles of the day, is used by many physicians. It is particularly desirable in locations where physicians are not near, and in families will often save the necessity of sending out at midnight for a doctor. HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES full sorts.

The undersigned who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise which commands here and in the markets of the interior a relatively higher price excites the cupidity of some manufacturers and every day he sees increasing the number of those who by counterfeit or imitation of his mark seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless buyers should be forewarned and placed on their guard against this practice.

The Undiscovered Country

Could we but know
The land that ends our dark uncertain travel,
Where lie those happier hills and meadows low,—
Ah, if beyond the spirit's inmost cavil,
Aught of that country could we surely know,
Who would not go?

Might we but hear
The hovering angels' high imagined chorus,
Or catch, betimes, with wakeful eyes and clear,
One radiant vista of the realm before us,—
With one rapt moment given to see and hear,
Ah, who would fear?

Were we quite sure
To find the peerless friend who left us lonely,
Or there, by some celestial stream as pure,
To gaze in eyes that here were lovelit only,—
This weary mortal coil, were we quite sure,
Who would endure?

[illegible]

Mr Nasby in North Carolina

Post Offis Confedrit X Roads
(wich is in the Stait uv Kentucky)
December 11 186[illegible]

For too weeks past I hev bin in North Karliny and hev hed a opportunity uv bein uv servis to my friend and the good cause

I wuz there collectin funds fur the college at this pint to which I am devoted hart and sole, and was a makin my home at Kernel [illegible] Podgers who resides just back of Rawly, and whose table and cellar permit me to say are unsurpassed in the South. Kernel Podgers is a gentleman of the old skool, who lives in luxurious elegance onto a plantashen uv 1,000 akers, and he hez troo piety into him and allus wears a shirt frill. Afore the war he owned 200 niggers, and his sole runnin out after em, he hez managed sence the war to collect most uv em, and git em together on the old place. He hez bin busily engaged in subdooin uv em and bringin uv em back to their normal condishen, but alas! ther wuz difficulties in the way. The men niggers with an obstinacy wich I cant account for refused to work fur four dollars per month, and the wimmin hevin bin married to ther husbands by the chaplin uv a regiment that wuz stationed here doorin the war, refoosed to resoom ther old relations, and things looked serious. Most men would hev yielded to circumstances and giv up, but Kernel Podger was not uv this stripe. He owed a duty to the poor misguided beins wich he felt he must fulfill, and besides he is desirous of buildin a new house next summer, and sendin two daughters (by his wife) to a seminary next season, and he felt that he must bring em to their senses. He sed that he stood in the relashen uv a father figeratively speakin to all uv em, and literally to many uv em, and wuz he a goin to let em go on a flyin out uv their normal speer? Not any.

The first day I wuz there a crisis occurred. John Podgers his son, insisted upon taking away the wife uv a mulatto, and the nigger, forgettin his posishen, wuz impudent. John struck him, and the degraded wretch waded in and whaled him unmerciful. This uv course could not be endoored. The Podgers blood riz, and that nigger wuz seized and catted till he died. Ef I remember right, he expired while undergoin discipline. It may be he lived till mornin, but it matters not, ceptin that I like to be accurate.

It wuz a solemn and impressive scene. The Kernel had the Ethiopian's wife present doorin the infliction of the punishment, and to show her that he did not perceed without authority, before commencin he read to her from Scripter the chapters treating uv Ham and Hager, and the passage commencin "servants obey your masters," and then walloped him with more vigor than I spozed wuz left in a man so old. He pinted to the nigger on the ground after he wuz cut down, and tellin her that he hoped it would be a lesson to her, bade her go to her quarters. But the perverse creecher didn't. She ran away and complained to the officer at the neerest post, who, instid uv sendin uv her back under guard, with his compliments to Kernel Podgers, actilly forwarded her complaint to Gen Sickles, who forthwith struck a blow at the foundations uv the fabric uv Southern society, and ordered the arrest uv the Kernel, who was to wunst placed in doorance vile.

There wuz eggscitement in the vicinity. I never saw such a fermentashen. Men run to and fro with blancht cheeks and askt, "What next?" Is our rites to be taken from us? Is Johnson a holler mockery! And they made up a purse, and begged me to go to Androo and stand between em and destrucksion. I ran up to Washington and had an interview with his Eggselency, the President. He knowed Kernel Podgers—in his younger days hed made his coats—and ez I teched upon the old man, immured in a dismal dungeon, he wept. But A. Johnson hez decision uv character. Wipin his eyes he isshood a order for the revokashen uv Sicklesses absurd order that niggers shouldn't be whipt, and a speshil order commandin the officer who hed the Kernel in custody to turn him over to the Civil Courts, to be tried in accordance with the laws uv North Karliny.

Armed with these documents, I flew back, and the nite I arrived I hed the satisfackshun uv takin the Kernel out uv jail and takin him before a Justis uv the Peace, where he gave bail to appear afore the Common Pleas to answer a charge uv manslaughter, preferred by the widder uv the dead nigger.

A day or two after the case wuz heard. I appeared for the Kernel. I held that the case be dismissed for the follerin reasons:

1. The charge uv manslaughter wuz absurd for the reason that in the minds uv the Southern people there hez allus bin the gravest doubts ez to whether the nigger is actily a man. I held that the length uv his heel, the thickness of his skull, the length uv his arm, all showd that he wuz uv a distinkt species. Ef this is the case, ez a matter uv course the Kernel goes free.

2. The Kernel cant be held, allowin the nigger to be a man, the laws of the State uv North Karlina permit the whippin uv niggers, but they dont prescribe the quantity uv whippin wich may be inflickted. It's a matter wich is left entirely to the discretion uv the whipper. It's a matter with wich the whippee hez nothing to do, neither hez the State. If the Kernel hed shot the nigger he wood be liable, for shootin aint prescribed, uv course it intends the matter to be left solely to the discreshen uv the party who hez the power to whip. Nothing kin be clearer than that. Shel Kernel Podgers be punisht becoz a nigger hedn't powers uv endoorance? Forbid it heven.

Here I rested the case. I showed to the satisfacktion uv the court that the law wuz not only just but humane, and that any sich absurdity ez punishin the Kernel for carryin out his provisions wood be strikin a blow at the frame work uv society.

The court coincided with me, and to wunst discharged the Kernel, amid the acklamashuns uv the crowd. The event wuz selebrated that afternoon by whippin every nigger within a cirkle uv ten miles. The exercise did our people good. It wuz soothin.

In the meantime John Podgers hed gone afore a Justis uv the Peace and made complaint uv Susan (that is the name uv the female wich wuz the cause uv the difficulty) ez a vagrant, and she wuz so declared by the Justis and put up and sold. Under the circumstances no one wood bid agin John, and she wuz struck off to him at fifty dollars, wich the Justis under the pecoolyer circumstances uv the case refoosed to take. I saw John a marching uv her home and felt happy.

The Kernel's gratitood wuz boundlis.

"Wat kin I do for you?" sed he, wringin my hand in a fever uv joy.

"Nothin!" sed I, "nothin. Virchoo is its own reward. But our college is languishin for want uv means—let yoor gratitood take that shape."

He subscribed, and paid $200, wich constitoots him a perpetoosl Honorary Professor, and $100 to make his wife a perpetooal Honorary Professor. I borrowed uv him $50 to take me home, ez I coodent uv course yoose college funds, and departed $350 better. I left regretfully. Now that this portion uv the South is gittin her rights it is trooly a delitefal place to live, and I shood like to end my days here. But my postoffis, and that college!—I kin never leave em, never! To that college I hev dedikated the few remainin years uv my life, and I'll never desert it so long ez there's a dollar to be raised for it uv anybody.

An Old Pipe.—A meerschaum pipe was sold lately, says the Chicago Tribune, by William A. Butters & Co. for $100. The bidding was very lively, the pipe starting at $25, going up the next bid to $50, next to $80 and again to $100, and no one appearing to "go better" than one hundred, it was knocked down for that amount to F. A. Jessel, auctioneer, of Randolph street. It is reported to have a strange history. Its first appearance in public is said to have been at the coronation of Philip II. of Spain, exactly three hundred years ago. Its history for nearly three centuries after this event is not generally known, but some twenty years since it was smoked several times a day by King Ludwig of Bavaria. About this time Lola Montez was quite intimate with the imbecile King, and it is to be presumed that she wheedled it out of his possession. When Lola was obliged to leave Munich in a hurry, she packed it with such other baggage as she was allowed to carry away, and brought it to the United States. After her death it was sold with the balance of her effects, but how it came to Chicago is a question which we are not able to answer. Its carrying capacity is very nearly an eighth of a pound. It is said to have been made about the year 1466. Its age may be a trifle or so less than three hundred and fifty years, but there can be no reasonable doubt that the eccentric Lola smoked it during the last years of her eventful life.

Cases for Accident Insurance Companies.—The "Breakneck Accident Insurance Company" wrote to the [illegible] not long since to work up a column or so of inducements for people to take out policies. This is the way he did it:

Everybody should get insured against accidents. No matter if you belong to one of the best families—accidents will happen to them. Get out a policy. Fountain of Life!

THE

GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER!

In every progressive science periods arrive when a new direction is imparted to its course. These epochs proceed from discovery of new facts shedding a light which changes the whole aspect of the science. The present is an epoch of this kind, and this Great Remedy now offered to the public, in connection with the theory on which it is based, is destined to effect an entire revolution in the treatment of the diseases of

by eradicating the disease entirely from the blood. The FOUNTAIN OF LIFE is composed entirely of vegetable extracts. It contains no Mercury or other mineral substance.

The Proprietor and Discoverer of this Sovereign Remedy CHALLENGES THE WORLD to furnish anything, from the days of Æsculapius down to the present time, in the arcana of Medical Science, which can vie with or excel the intrinsic properties of this Great Blood Purifier. Its value has been tested with the happiest effect in the most obstinate cases of Scrofula, that baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians in the world. No matter what form the dreadful disease of SCROFULA AND KING'S EVIL may have assumed, it can in no way be more safely and certainly arrested in its progress than by HENLEY'S GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER. Thousands have been swept into their graves, who had they made a timely use of the FOUNTAIN OF LIFE, might now be enjoying the blessings of life and health. It requires an article of real merit and intrinsic value to sustain itself. During the stern ordeal of public experiment the FOUNTAIN OF LIFE has stood the test trial and not been found wanting.

Dr. HENLEY guarantees to CURE any case of SCROFULA or KING'S EVIL in the world, and eradicate the disease entirely from the system, or no charge made—provided they will secure him his pay when they are cured.

FOR REFERENCE

I would refer you to L. L. Peck of Portland, Oregon, and numbers of others, as to what a miraculous effect it had in a short time in cases that had baffled the skill of physicians for years.

DISEASES OF THE EYES

to call at his office and be at once restored. Surgical operations SKILLFULLY performed on the EYES for film, cataract, strabismus or cross eyes.

Below are some of the many testimonials:

This is to certify that I, John B. Jodwan, was blind for over nine years, and I tried all means of a cure, and many doctors, and all of no effect, and I spent all the means I had. Finally I had to become a county charge, and when I was taken to Dr. G. W. Brown, and stated my case to him and misfortune, he at once commenced to treat my eyes, and now I am well, and commend all those that are suffering with diseases of the eyes to call on Dr. G. W. Brown. The reason why I do this is to let suffering humanity know where they can be cured.

SALEM, July 21, 1866.

This is to certify that I was blind for over four months, and almost blind for one year and a half. I tried several eye doctors, but received no benefit. I had almost given my case up as hopeless, when fortunately I heard of Dr. G. W. Brown, now of Salem. I was induced to try him. He performed a surgical operation on my eyes, and gave me treatment. I soon began to recover, and in a short time I was perfectly cured. I do this in justice to one whose cure I [illegible] more than death, and also for the benefit of those who are laboring under similar afflictions, that they may know where they can get relief. It is now about eight months since my eyes were cured, and they still remain good. I can see to read the finest print without difficulty, and my eyes can bear the strongest light without pain.
